Aviator Glen H. Curtiss predicts that the next development in the aviation field will be a flying motorcycle.

One of the most disquieting things about the Wilson tariff law is the enormous cargo of enthusiastic approval which is being imported from abroad.

At the special session of Congress the bills and resolutions introduced totaled 12,000. How many had no other object than that of reminding constituencies that their representatives were on the job?

The preplanned city of Lomax, Illinois, is trying a unique plan to encourage the location of industries. It is announced that the founders of the city will give to each manufacturing plant free power for at least 90 years on the basis of one horsepower for each male employee, charging for additional power, at the rate of $20 per horsepower per year. Sale of liquor in the town is prohibited, and a special study is being made of living conditions, rentals and labor problems.

Isn't it a little strange that the church is the only institution which seems determined to preserve the Mason and Dixon line of war times? Nobody else seems to need the old line, and by common consent the mark of sectionalism has been defaced and would hardly be recognized now except for the church. Still there are indications that within the next few years even these valiant soldiers of the cross will decide upon plans of union and enter the last vestige of sectionalism too deep for earthly resurrection—The Chattanooga Tradesman.

COX VS. COXEY.

General J. S. Coxey, who led the army of unemployed from Massillon, Ohio, to Washington in 1894, and is now contemplating the organization of another army to march to the capital to urge the passage of his non-taxable bonds and government-owned bank bills, announced his candidacy for governor, subject to the Socialist party referendum.

CANADIAN RAILROADS.

The advocates of public ownership of railroads will not find much to support their case in the Canadian experiment. There is a marked contrast between the service given by the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk railways, controlled by private enterprise, on the one hand, and that given by the Intercolonial Railway, owned and operated by the Government, on the other. The privately owned lines are better constructed, have up-to-date cars and other equipment, and furnish the public with every comfort and precaution for safety, while on the Intercolonial day coaches, sleeping and dining cars are antiquated. The Government owned and operated line is locally known as the association for the discouragement of travel in the Maritime Provinces—From the San Francisco Chronicle.

THE FALLACY OF GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Ex-Senator Jonathan Bourne, of Oregon, declares that Government ownership of telegraph, telephone, railway, electric, water, and express systems of the country would eventually result in the complete domination of the Government by its own employees, who would vote themselves such hours and pay as they chose. Including the present number of government civil employees, the total number of employees of all the systems mentioned would be 2,818,345. Mr. Bourne adds: "Taking into consideration the fact that in the last ten presidential elections the President has been elected by a plurality varying from 7,000 plus to little over 2,500,000, the thought naturally arises that three million governmental employees could absolutely control the Government under our political machinery, the tendency being more pay, less service in governmental employment, resulting in resistless efforts on the part of outside labor to secure Government employment because less onerous and more remunerative, with accumulative dissatisfaction and irritation in all private enterprises."

DIDN'T YOU PROMISE

TO MAKE IT COME DOWN?

Everybody is taking a whack at the high cost of living, but the stubborn thing refuses to move downward a single notch.—West Union Defender.

One of your Democratic arguments that fooled the workingman and put Woody there, was that the Demmies would knock the bottom out of the "High Cost of Living."

RURAL SCHOOL TEACHERS GET LESS

SALARY THAN THE AVERAGE BOY.

Rapid strides in progress are being made by the rural schools of Kentucky, comparing the years of 1910 and 1911 with the years of 1912 and 1913.

The rural schools have increased from $5,863,347 to $6,586,519. The attendance in the county high schools increased from 4,315 to 6,563.

The average salary of the teachers in rural schools increased from $264.83 to $269.33.

The amount of money paid the teachers increased from $5,030,908.75 to $5,305,919.07. The attendance of the teachers in the normal schools increased from 1911 to 3,408. The number of first-class certificates increased from 5,068 to 6,613, and the second class certificates decreased nearly 1,000.

IS THIS DEMOCRATIC PROSPERITY?

With the purpose of finding work for unemployed thousands now walking the streets of the country's large cities, the Federal Commission of Industrial Relations inaugurated an investigation to extend from Boston to Kansas City.

Attention will first be given to public and private employment agencies to bring out to what extent the trouble is due to their lack of organization and inefficiency, and four investigators have been assigned to undertake this task with orders to report within six weeks.

The Commission it was announced, regards the unemployed problem as a prime one, because present conditions in the labor field are practically the same as exist every year at this season, therefore besides seeking to find some measure of relief immediately for the suffering it is proposed to gather material for the preparation of legislation by Congress to establish a Federal employment bureau to serve as a clearing house for public and private agencies.

Stories of suffering, particularly in New York City, where 250,000 men and women, many of them with little children dependent upon them are reported out of employment with only charity to keep them from starving and freezing, stirred the Commission to action.

"Hundreds of thousands of men, industrious and anxious to work are either out of employment or without assurance that their jobs will continue another week or another day," said chairman F. P. Walsh.

"Groups numbering from 100 to 1,000 stand on the docks outside our great industrial plants, each morning at 6 o'clock hoping the foreman will pull them out of the line and put them to work. They are thankful if they get only a few hours employment."

"Poorly nourished and thinly clad these men gather each morning for the foreman's inspection, submit to his rapid scrutiny and then many drift away to the cheap saloons or cheap lodging houses to wait for another chance.

"None can see this spectacle without realizing that here is something society cannot afford to tolerate. An employer never thinks of laying off his bookkeeper or clerk after employing him 3 or 4 hours in a day or 3 or 4 days in the week. The problem of continuous employment for laborers is more difficult but it is a problem that must be solved if we are to check the increase in our great army of hopeless, homeless men."

DESCRIPTIVE.

He was accustomed to drinking straight, plain drinks. But one day they inveigled him into taking one of those mixed affairs; one of those that not only includes a combination of liquids, but also orange peel, pineapple, a cherry and other rank outsiders.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he was asked by the bunch that had done the inveigling.

He looked disapprovingly at the sunken garden before him.

"Boys," he said, "I object to drinking a mince pie."—New York Times.

WOMEN FROM 45 TO 55 TESTIFY

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life.

Westbrook, Me. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial." — Mrs. LAWRENCE MARTIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis. — "At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I have to thank you for my continued good health ever since." — Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, Manston, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled in such cases.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

BABIES ARE NOT MAILABLE—NOT JUST YET.

Washington.—Babies are not mailable. The Postoffice Department so holds in an edict barring them from the parcel post.

The question arose over a request by the postmaster at Stratford, Okla., for a ruling, by the Department as to whether a patron of his office could send a two year old child by parcel post from Twin Falls, Idaho, to Stratford. The postmaster was greatly puzzled because he could find nothing in the regulations covering such a case. So he referred it to the Postoffice Department.

It was the first time the authorities here had been asked to rule upon the question and it caused a mild sensation. Animals are also barred.

Will Find Help In This Letter.

Overworked, run down, "fagged-out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about, should profit by Mrs. Brill's experience.

She says: "I was in a very weak, run-down condition. Life was not worth living. I could not sleep, was very nervous, stomach bad, and was not able to work."

"I consulted with one or two physicians, without benefit. I read of Vinol helping some one in a similar condition so I began to take it, and it simply did wonders for me. I gained in weight and I am now in better health and stronger than ever. I can not find words enough to praise Vinol."

—Mrs. W. H. Brill, Racine, Wis.
Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-giving effects of Vinol. We guarantee Vinol to build you up and make you strong. If it does not, we give back your money. J. C. Peck, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

MR. METZLER'S TALK

Says It Is a Demand of the Church of Christ That The Gospel Be Spread Among Heathen Peoples.

In the program for the Kentucky Educational Association school exhibits, we notice under the head of cooking in the Elementary Schools, city and rural up to the eighth grade, the following articles:

Cooking.

1. One dozen beaten biscuits.
2. One loaf yeast bread.
3. One fruit cake.
4. Six samples preserves.
5. Six samples canned fruit or vegetables.

This is good, when we come to the High School exhibits.

Cooking.

1. One dozen beaten biscuits.
2. One pound candy.
3. One fruit cake.
4. Small cakes.
5. Six samples canning.

This is good, but why is it not just as important that our High School girls know how to make yeast bread and preserves as it is for the rural cousins or the eighth graders? Or was it because when it came to candy and small cakes they fear the rural schools and eighth graders would run away with all the premiums? Or was it just a division arbitrarily made to mark a difference between the grades? We believe in division, but when it comes to where the competition can be made on all the articles give all a show. We would like to see that a sweepstakes and our country school children and eighth graders get in the ring.

A HEALTHY, HAPPY WIFE is the greatest inspiration a man can have and the life of the family, yet how many homes in this fair land are blighted by the ill health of wife and mother!

It may be backaches, headaches, the tortures of a displacement, or some ailment peculiar to her sex which makes life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, to restore her to health and happiness.

COOKING

In Schools and Some Timely Remarks Thereon.

The Reverend Mr. Metzler at the First Presbyterian Church Praise meeting last Thursday night made an excellent address, extracts of which we give today.

Instead of speaking about his experience in mission work in China, Mr. Metzler struck a more serious note and dwelled upon the solemn obligation of the church to give the Gospel to the heathen world.

He said the plea for religious toleration advocated by a certain class of church members, is like the decree issued by Valerius, the Roman Emperor, who hoped thereby to appease the Christian's God, viz: That Christianity be simply one of the different religions of the vast Roman domain and that no effort should be made to convert anyone from paganism. The Christians answered that they were ready to be hung to the lions, but could not disobey the command of their Lord to bring all people under the sway of his scepter.

He contrasted Confucianism and Christianity and that the President of the Imperial University acknowledged that Christian ethics could only save China.

Mr. Metzler brought home to the hearts of hearers with peculiar force the definite command of Christ, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel unto every creature," is sufficient to nullify every objection of the Foreign Mission cause; and a failure to obey these words is tantamount to a practical denial of Jesus as Lord. He referred to the student movement and spoke of the work done by the Moravian Church in missions. He closed with these lines:

One field: the wheeling world.
Vast furrows open lie;
Broadcast let seed be sown.
By us before we die,
Winds, East or West; let no tares fall.
Wide wait the best; God to winnow all.

Lots of people live and learn the things that are of no use to them.

If money talks it must be in silvery tones, for we are told that silence is golden.

FEED THE BIRDS

As They Suffer For Food In Winter, Says Audubon Society.

"When the ground is covered with snow then is man's opportunity to repay the wild birds in a measure for the services rendered him last summer when they destroyed untold millions of insects that would have taken their daily toll from his food supply," said Eugene Snape, Ohio Audubon Field Agent.

"Preserving wild bird life has a humanitarian side, but their economic value so overshadows all else in these days when our food supply is getting more and more expensive, that those who neglect to help preserve the lives of our wild birds in winter are neglecting to do themselves and their communities a good turn," continued he.

"All suburban and rural communities are kindly requested by the Audubon Society to feed the birds every period when sleet and snow covers trees and ground."

MOST DESTRUCTIVE WARSHIP

The Sinking of the "Alabama" By the "Kearsarge," Off Cherbourg, France, June 19, 1864.

(From a Painting by a French Artist Who Witnessed the Conflict.)

The Battle Between the Alabama and Kearsarge.

When the Alabama arrived at Cherbourg, the enemy's steamer Kearsarge was lying at Flushing. On the 14th of June, or three days after our arrival, she steamed into the harbor of Cherbourg, sent a boat on shore to communicate with the authorities, and steamed out again and took her station off the breakwater. We had heard a day or two before of the expected arrival of this ship, and it was generally understood among the crew that I intended to engage her. Her appearance, therefore, produced no little excitement on board. I addressed a note to Mr. Bouffie, our agent, requesting him to inform Captain Winslow, of the Kearsarge, through the U. S. Consul, that if he would wait until I could receive some coal on board—my supply having been nearly exhausted by my late cruising—I would come out and give him battle. This message was duly conveyed, and the defiance was understood to have been accepted. My crew seemed not only willing but anxious for the combat; but they labored under one serious disadvantage—they had but very limited opportunities of actual practice at target-firing with shot and shell. The reason is obvious, I had no means of replenishing either shot or shell, and was obliged, therefore, to husband the store I had on hand for actual conflict. As for the two ships, though the Kearsarge was superior to the Alabama, both in size, stanchness of construction and armament, they were of force so nearly equal that I can not be charged with rashness in having offered battle. The Kearsarge mounted seven guns, 11-inch Dahlgrens, four 32-pounders and a rifled 28-pounder. The Alabama carried one more gun than the Kearsarge, though the latter was enabled to throw more metal at a broadside. Still the disparity was not so great but that I might hope to beat my enemy in a fair fight. But he did not show me fair fight, for, as it afterwards turned out, his ship was ironclad. In the way of crew, the Kearsarge had 162, all told; the Alabama 149. I completed my preparations on Saturday evening, 18th of June, and notified the Port Admiral of my intention to go out on the following morning. The next day dawned beautiful and bright. My crew had turned in early and gotten a good night's rest, and I permitted them to get their breakfast comfortably—not turning them to until 9 o'clock—before any movement was made toward getting under way, beyond lighting the fires in the furnace. We steamed out of the harbor of Cherbourg between 9 and 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, the 19th of June, 1864. After clearing the harbor, we described the Kearsarge, with head off shore, at the distance of about seven miles. We were within good shell range an hour coming up with the enemy. I opened upon him with shell. Some ten or fifteen minutes after the commencement of the action our spunkier gaff was shot away and our ensign came down by the raa. This was immediately replaced by another at the mizen mast-head. The firing now became very hot, and the enemy's shot and shell soon began to tell upon our hull, knocking down, killing and disabling a number of men at the same time in different parts of the ship. Perceiving that our shell, though apparently exploding against the enemy's side, were doing little damage, I returned to solid-shot firing, and from this time onward alternated with shot and shell. After the lapse of about one hour and ten minutes our ship was ascertained to be in a sinking condition, the enemy's shell having exploded in our side and between decks, opening large apertures, through which the waters rushed with great rapidity. For some few minutes I had hopes of being able to reach the French coast, for which purpose I gave the ship all steam and set such of the fore and aft sails as were available. The ship filled so rapidly, however, that before we had made progress the fires were extinguished in the furnaces and we were evidently on the point of sinking. I now hauled down my colors, to prevent the further destruction of life, and dispatched a boat to inform the enemy of my condition.

We now directed all our efforts toward saving the wounded and such of the boys of the ship as were unable to swim. These were dispatched in my quarter boats, the only boats remaining to me, the waist boats having been torn to pieces. Some twenty minutes after my furnace fires had been extinguished, and when the ship was on the point of settling, every man, in obedience to a previous order which had been given the crew, jumped overboard and endeavored to save himself. There was no appearance of any boat coming to me from the enemy until after my ship went down. Fortunately, however, the steam yacht Deerhound, owned by a gentleman of Lancashire, England—Mr. John Lancaster—who was himself on board, steamed up in the midst of my drowning men and rescued a number of both officers and men from the water. I was fortunate enough myself to escape to the shelter of the neutral flag, together with about forty others all told. The balance of the crew were picked up by the enemy and by a couple of French pilot-boats, which were also fortunately near the scene of action. At the end of the engagement it was discovered by those of our officers who went alongside of the Kearsarge with the wounded that her midship section on both sides was thoroughly iron-clad, this having been done with chains constructed for the purpose placed perpendicularly from the rail to the water's edge, the whole covered over by a thin outer plating, which gave no indication of the armor beneath. This plating had been ripped off in every direction by our shot and shell, the chain broken and indented in many places and forced partly into the ship's side. She was effectually guarded in this section from penetration. The officers and men of the Alabama behaved steadily and gallantly, and, though they lost their ship, they did not lose their honor. Where all behaved so well, it would be invidious to particularize, but I can not deny myself the pleasure of saying that Lieutenant Kell deserves great credit for the fine condition in which the ship went into action with regard to her battery, magazine and shell rooms, and he rendered the commander great assistance by his coolness and judgment as the fight proceeded. Our loss in killed, wounded and drowned was 40, to-wit: 9 killed, 10 drowned and 21 wounded. Every one of the wounded men were saved. They were passed carefully into a boat and sent off to the enemy's ship before the Alabama made her final plunge into the sea. A brave officer, Surgeon D. H. Lowellyn, of Wiltshire, England, a grandson of Lord Herbert, lost his life by drowning. It was his privilege to accompany the wounded men in the boats to the Kearsarge, but he did not do so. He remained and took his chance of escape with the rest of his brethren-in-arms and perished almost in sight of his home, after an absence of two years from the dear ones who were to mourn his loss.

WALKED OFF WITH A LOCOMOTIVE

The most successful and at the same time the most unusual civil service examination known of, occurred during the Civil War. The Confederacy was very much in need of a railway locomotive in order to operate their supply system. It was in 1864 and they had no means to buy an engine, so the inevitable alternative arose—capture one. A band of 100 men was selected from Lee's army and placed under the command of a big six-foot-four Georgian, who had been a foreman of a stone quarry, and was more or less skilled in the use of derricks, etc. He took his men up into Maryland, and they tore up a section of the Baltimore & Ohio Railway tracks, flagged the next train, and, with nothing on earth save plenty of rope, those 100 men carried the locomotive fifty-two miles over hills, across streams, through bogs and woods, and until they struck a railway the Confederacy had built. Then they ran the engine down to Virginia. When John W. Garrett, the president of the Baltimore & Ohio, heard of the feat he couldn't believe it. He went out and personally inspected the scene, went over the route and declared it the most wonderful feat of engineering ever accomplished. After the war he delegated a man to find the leader of the band. He was located in Georgia. Mr. Garrett sent for him, and, on the strength of that single feat, made him roadmaster of his system of railroads. "Any man that can pick up an engine with fishing lines and carry it over a mountain has passed his examination with me," said Mr. Garrett.

MRS. JONES TELLS STORY OF KILLING MRS. CAVE.

Nashville, Tenn.—Mrs. Leola Jones took the stand to defend herself against the charge of murdering Mrs. Alva Cave, beautiful daughter-in-law of Dr. R. Lin Cave, chaplain general of the United Confederate Veterans.

She said that on the night of the murder she was "feeling especially blue because my husband had goaded me beyond measure about his new love, and had informed me that he intended calling upon her that night."

She was passing Mrs. Cave's house, she said, when she heard a woman cough, looked up, saw Mrs. Cave standing in a lighted hall. Later she returned to the house, heard her husband's voice in a dark room, she says, and shot Mrs. Cave when the latter said her husband was not there.

The murdered woman was the wife of a nephew of Rev. P. A. Cave, a former pastor of the Maysville Christian Church.

The snow and cold weather seems to retard attendance at Sunday Schools. We must not let a little thing like the snow cause our enthusiasm to dwindle. Push next Sunday for better results.

The president of the Sunday School Union was at the M. E. Church in Greenup Sunday taking part in the services in that church. He hopes to finish up his visitation of the schools in a short time.

Mrs. C. Ed Geisel, the organist at the First Christian Church, was unable to be at her post yesterday on account of sickness.

First Baptist Church had an excellent day although the weather was disagreeable. There were three additions, two conversions and one by letter. The church moves right along.

The Mission is doing good work. Several who have been converted there, have joined the different churches.

Sunday vaudeville in Lexington theaters yesterday has so aroused the decent people of the city that it may lead to wiping out the sale of liquor in Fayette County.

ALLEGED NAVAL DESERTERS

Give Themselves Up—Declare They Skipped From Battle Ship Louisiana.

Chief of Police James Mackey was surprised yesterday morning when two young men approached him and gave themselves up as alleged deserters from the United States battleship Louisiana at Norfolk, Va.

They gave their names as Albie Bonnier and Ira O. Stene. They told a straight story, seemingly, about being out on a lark at Norfolk; some of their party were pulled, while they being in a maudlin state, skipped out.

They are held in the Maysville jail pending verification of their story. In the meantime they are faring finely and have plenty of tobacco in their old tobacco box.

How would you like to ride in a freight car 500 miles in the winter time without any fire, in company with 4,000 live chickens and 1,500 pounds dead turkeys.

This is just what a man did, when he completed his journey yesterday when this special car of Missouri and Kansas fowls arrived for the E. L. Manchester Produce Company, of Maysville.

The consignment should have got here Friday, but was delayed two days by the snow storm.

This is the first Western car of live or dressed poultry ever received in this city and is a new venture in the commercial line.

DRASTIC INSURANCE BILL

Passed By The House Empowering State Board To Fix All Rates.

Frankfort, Ky., February 14.—The House of Representatives, late Friday, by a vote of 52 to 25, passed the Glenn-Green bill, which empowers the State Insurance board to fix a flat rate on fire insurance, and which creates a special fund of $100,000 to be used in putting the law into effect. There was opposition to the measure, those who opposed it, fighting for delay, a number of amendments being offered. However, the bill was little changed from its original form. Under the law the Rating board is given power and authority to employ agents and experts. The Democratic members of the House unanimously refused to make the State Rating board a non-Partisan or Bipartisan board.

Farmers

Have you ever tried our way of borrowing money to pay for a farm?

You, of course, know that most farms are sold for one-third cash and the balance of the payment is represented by lien notes due in one and two years. You also know that there are times when it is impossible to pay these notes when they become due.

Our specialty is lending money on good farms for LONG PERIODS. Wouldn't you rather have five years to pay the balance than two years? Any one expecting to buy farms this March will do well to come in and consult us about getting the money.

We have been giving satisfactory service for 24 years.

A Discovery Worth While

talking about is the splendid quality of our fine old Rye Whisky. It is mellow, rich flavored and pure, and makes a most delightful highball or bracing drink. It is matchless in its medicinal properties, too, and it never gives one a headache. If you are a critic of good liquors, you will be pleased to recommend this brand after the first trial.

ELECTRIC SIGNS!

The distinguishing air of quality which a first-class Electric Sign gives to a store is the element which gives a sign its greatest value as an advertising medium and investment. The impression it makes is good. It blazes forth to the public that there is business enterprise, merchandise and methods up-to-date. It affects the entire atmosphere of the business district. The stranger says, "It is a live town," and publishes it abroad.

It is the Sign of the Times.
